

Ansbacher Channel Islands awards Lifetime Achievement Award

14th September 2006

Ansbacher Channel Islands has awarded employee Tammy Channing a lifetime achievement award in recognition of her dedicated service to the bank and as part of Ansbacher Channel Islands 35th anniversary celebrations. Ansbacher first established itself in the Channel Islands in 1971, with offices in both Guernsey and Jersey it offers a range of banking, fiduciary and investment services.

The Bank's 35th anniversary celebrations kicked off with a Summer Ball last month. As part of the celebrations, the newly created lifetime achievement accolade was awarded to Ms Channing in recognition of 17 years dedicated contribution to the bank.

Mrs Channing (41) from St Brelade, Jersey has worked in many sections of Ansbacher and is currently an integral member of the Trust Team assisting in all payments and administration of a small portfolio of clients. Staff nominated colleagues to receive the award and the final winner was judged by Mark Bright, Managing Director of Ansbacher Channel Islands.

Mark Bright comments "Tammy is a deserving winner of the award. She is professional and organised in her work and takes a huge administrative pressure off the client facing teams. She also has a bank of invaluable knowledge that is often tapped in to across the business".

Tammy adds "The award was a complete shock and I was flattered that people had taken the time to vote for me".

Also awarded on the night were long term service awards for all employees that hit a five year multiple at some point in 2006. These included Aileen Laffoley (20 years), Angela Travadon (15 years) and Tania Bisson, Michael Wegerer and Chris Hole (all 10 years).

Mark Bright said "We are delighted to be celebrating 35 successful years in the Channel Islands and rewarding the dedication of our colleagues was an appropriate way to do it. As the bank continues to develop, forging new relationships and maximising our links with the Middle East, we look forward to celebrating many more anniversaries".
